

Les séminaires d'ausonius

ausonius institut de recherche antiquité et moyen âge Umr 5607

jeudi 17 octobre 2024 à 18h

Amphi archéo (ACH005) de la Maison de l'archéologie

Hidden social connections and glass production: Glass as an Indicator of Relationships in the Northern Black Sea Region in the VIth - Ist centuries BCE.

A core-formed amphoriskos from the Northern Black Sea region (1st century BCE – the 1st decade of the 1st century CE)

Anzhelika KOLESNYCHENKO - Archaeology of ancient Greek colonies in the Black Sea region

The talk will have a dual focus: it reflects the author's research on the production and distribution of glass beads in the Archaic Period, as well as the study of imported core-formed glass vessels. Both lines of argument are linked by a notion of social interactions behind emerging spatial patterns. The combined research reveals new aspects of the life of the ancient Greeks on the North Black Sea coast and their connections with the indigenous population and the Mediterranean basin

Université
BORDEAUX
MONTAIGNE

MINISTÈRE
DE LA CULTURE
Liberté
Égalité Fraternité

ausonius.u-bordeaux-montaigne.fr